Plot

The film opens with a group of nerds being humiliated by the popular jocks at Adams College. The nerds are led by Lewis Skolnick (Carradine), a brilliant but socially awkward student. After being rejected by the jocks' fraternity, the nerds decide to form their own fraternity, which they call Lambda Lambda Lambda.

Lambda Lambda Lambda is initially ridiculed by the other fraternities on campus, but the nerds gradually gain acceptance and respect. They do this by challenging the jocks to a series of competitions, including a football game, a dance contest, and a "Nerd Olympics." The nerds win each competition, and the jocks are forced to accept them as equals.

The film ends with the nerds throwing a party at their fraternity house. The party is a huge success, and the nerds are finally accepted by their peers.
